
You can download a full-length movie from YouTube without a problem. But what if you want to watch a full-length movie on your phone? There's an easy way to do that, too! Learn how in this blog post.

A couple of weeks ago I wrote about how to download videos from the Web without using the browser. Another way to do this is with a little program called Real Player. Real Player allows you to stream or download video from YouTube. Real Player is free for Windows PCs. The streaming version is available for Macs, but you need Real Player Plus ($30) to download any videos, which are then saved in Real Media format. These instructions are for RealPlayer 11 for Windows 8.1 computers, but there should be no difference with older versions of RealPlayer or other operating systems.

To use RealPlayer, you need Flash installed, so make sure it's enabled in your browser before you get started .

Download and install RealPlayer. When you launch it, you'll be prompted to select the type of installation. Select "Complete" and click Next.

After you've installed RealPlayer, run it. (If prompted with security warnings, click Continue or Allow.)

Select your Internet connection type (DSL, dial-up, broadband wireless, etc.). If you're not sure, select Broadband DSL/Cable/Dial up; it's the most common choice. Fill in your data (such as Name and e-mail address) if you want to try out the free trial of RealPlayer Plus or if you want to register for the program .

Click Next.

If you want, select any of the optional offers, such as Norton Security Scan. However, since it is a free download, I wouldn't waste my time with these offers! Click Next.

You'll be taken to the program's home screen. At this point you can either search for videos or just click on "Choose from any video."

Type "YouTube" into the search bar and click Go .

Searching for videos on YouTube.

Select a video to watch and hit Play.

The video will start playing in RealPlayer's Media Player window. You can improve the quality of the video by clicking on Playback and then Video Quality .

Here you can select from a couple of options, such as Adaptive Bitrate. Adaptive Bitrate will let the video buffer as needed so that it plays smoothly.

When you're done watching, just double-click on the RealPlayer icon in the taskbar to close it. If you want to download a video for offline viewing, do this:

Find a video on YouTube that you'd like to watch on your computer or phone.

A dropdown menu will appear with two options: View and Download. Select Download .
